CAMBRIDGE OVATION PORTAL

Philadelphia, PA, Risk & Insurance Management Society, Booth #1211, April 18, 2005

Risk managers can now better manage their property and casualty losses with real-time, global access to claims data provided by the Cambridge Ovation Portal. This new technology offering from Cambridge, a strategic global outsourcing firm with expertise in claims and loss cost management services, is the first in the insurance industry to offer real-time information on claims escrow account activity.

Launched in November, 2004, the Cambridge Ovation Portal transforms insurance claim data into usable information so that risk managers make timely, accurate decisions to prevent and manage losses. All information they need about a claim is a few keystrokes away, anywhere in the world.

“We’ve listened to our clients from around the world, and the result is an IT solution that equips them to manage in a 24/7, global environment, that is as easy to use and is as familiar as making travel reservations online,” said Chris Sinclair, CEO of Cambridge. “Now more than ever, time is money. Cambridge is committed to delivering easy yet sophisticated solutions that produce faster, better, money-saving results for our clients. It’s not just about having data available – it’s about having usable information that helps managers make better business decisions, from Australia to Amsterdam.”

The Cambridge Ovation Client Portal offers many advantages including:

- Real-time access to data
- More accurate tracking of individual property & casualty insurance claims and claim trends
- The ability to identify claims before they reach a designated threshold
- Real-time status of escrow account activity throughout the business day.

The Cambridge Ovation Client Portal is available now, and is a free information technology service that is bundled with other Cambridge property & casualty insurance claims administration and loss cost management services. For more information, contact Cambridge Marketing at 847.928.3050.
